Jennifer Daily - Everything We Knew In The Beginning, 16x20"

This piece is from the Carved collection, which is as much a practice in discernment as it is a body of work. A reflection of the choices we make in how we spend our days, and what we allow into our lives. Without discernment and careful choice, there is only chaos and clutter. Especially relevant during the holiday season, this work is a reminder to choose peace.

Lucy Reiser Fine Art - Original oil painting

What I love about painting landscapes is capturing the feeling a certain place first evoked - freedom, gratitude, presence, WONDER. My hope for these paintings is that they serve as invitations into that sense of wonder and awe. That they would be little windows to a state of mind where you can breathe deeply and for a moment feel a bit more alive and free.
